Sales Call Guide

How to talk to café owners — word for word

ZORDIC.IN · FOR YOUR EYES ONLY

READ THIS FIRST

How to use this guide

This is your script for calling café and restaurant owners. Everything in a gold box is meant to be said almost word-for-word — but say it like you, relaxed, not like reading. Slip into Hinglish whenever the owner does.

Your one goal on every call

Get to one of these three before you hang up — never end without one:

- 1 Sign them up live on the call (best) — you both open zordic.in/onboard together.
- 2 Book a 15-minute visit to their café.
- 3 Get a yes to send the links on WhatsApp + a fixed day/time you'll call back.

Before you dial (1 minute)

- Google the café — note its rating, whether it looks busy, one specific detail.
- Keep open on your screen: zordic.in/pitch, zordic.in/onboard, this guide.
- Sit up straight and smile before dialing — it genuinely changes your voice.

A complete example call

Read this out loud a few times before your first real call. This is how a good call actually flows — opener, listening, one clear pitch, an objection, and a close.

The owner picks up.

YOU	Hi, am I speaking with the owner of Brew Haven?
OWNER	Yes, speaking. Who's this?
YOU	Hi sir, my name is Satyam — I run a small tech company called Zordic. We help cafés get more repeat customers using WhatsApp. I'm not selling you a POS machine, I promise. Do you have 3 minutes, or should I call at a better time?
OWNER	(laughs) Okay, tell me, but I'm a little busy.
YOU	Totally fair, I'll be quick. Just one question first — when a customer WhatsApps you late at night asking about a table, what usually happens to that message?
OWNER	Honestly... sometimes we see it in the morning. If it's busy, it gets missed.
This is gold. He just told you his pain. Repeat it back.
YOU	That's exactly the thing we fix. So Zordic is like an AI receptionist that sits inside your own WhatsApp number — same number your customers already message. The difference is now every message gets answered in seconds, day or night. That 11 PM booking? It replies instantly, takes the name, guests, time, and the booking is on your dashboard before you wake up. You stop losing tables to slow replies.
OWNER	Hmm. But will this AI say something stupid to my customers? That's my worry.
YOU	Genuinely the right thing to worry about — and it's built exactly for that. Anything sensitive — a complaint, a refund, a big group booking — it does NOT answer on its own. It politely says "let me check with the owner" and pings you on WhatsApp right away with a suggestion. And you can watch every single conversation it has, live, on your phone. Nothing hidden.
OWNER	Okay, that's good. How much is it?
YOU	The plan most cafés take is 3,000 rupees a month. Think of it this way — what's an average table worth to you? Around 400–500 rupees? So that's about six tables a month. The win-back messages alone — where it quietly texts customers who haven't come in a while — usually bring back more than six people. And the first 10 days are completely free, no card needed.
OWNER	Free for 10 days?
YOU	Fully free, no card. You just try it. If it doesn't bring you value, you walk away and your data is yours to keep. Tell you what — signup takes 2 minutes. Open zordic.in/onboard on your phone, I'll stay right here on the line and we'll do it together. Then you can play with it tonight.
OWNER	Achha, okay, let me open it.
You walk him through it live — name, his name, phone, done. Then:
YOU	Perfect — see that username and password on screen? Screenshot it right now so you don't lose it. That's it, your café is live! I'll call you tomorrow to help connect your WhatsApp number — that's the last step and I do it with you. Welcome aboard, sir. 🍷

1. Openers & discovery

Opening a cold call

YOU: "Hi, am I speaking with the owner of [Café]? ... Great — my name is Satyam, I run a tech company called Zordic. We help cafés get more repeat customers using WhatsApp. I'm not selling a POS machine, I promise. Do you have 3 minutes, or should I call at a better time?"

Names their café, states the benefit in one line, the POS joke disarms, asking permission respects their time. If busy → "No problem — is 4 PM okay, or tomorrow morning?" (offer two times, never "when are you free?").

Discovery — ask 3, then go quiet

Ask, then stop talking. Whatever pain they name becomes your entire pitch.

- "When a customer WhatsApps you at 11 at night, what happens to that message?"
- "Are weekdays as busy as weekends, or is there a slow day that bugs you?"
- "When a regular stops coming — do you even get to know, or do they just disappear?"

2. The pitch — one lane per call

Don't list features. Pick the ONE that matches what they told you.

Lane A — they miss messages / bookings

"That 11 PM message — the AI answers it instantly, books the table, name, guests, time, all on your dashboard before you wake up. Zero bookings lost to slow replies."

Lane B — slow weekdays

"You said Tuesdays are dead. Every Monday, Zordic looks at your real sales and sends you one suggestion — like 'Tuesday 3–6, 15% off, send to regulars.' You tap approve, it goes out on WhatsApp. Your marketing department, for the price of a few coffees."

Lane C — customers disappear

"Zordic notices every regular who hasn't come in 2 weeks, texts them a personal offer with a coupon, and shows you who actually came back and spent money. Not likes — rupees."

The safety line — use in EVERY call

"The AI never gambles with your reputation. Complaints, refunds, big group bookings — it calms the customer and alerts YOU with a suggestion. Big decisions stay yours. Even discounts — you set the maximum it's allowed to give."

The money line — say it slowly

"For a café doing ~60 customers a day, even conservative math says 40–50,000 rupees extra a month. The plan is 3,000. It pays for itself if it saves one table a week."

IF THEY ASK "WHAT ALL DOES IT DO?"

3. Every feature, in plain spoken words

Only go through these if they ask. Otherwise stick to one lane. Each line is how to say it, not read it.

AI WhatsApp receptionist

"Answers customers instantly on WhatsApp — menu, prices, timings, bookings — 24 hours, in English or Hindi."

QR ordering

"A QR code on each table. Guests scan, see your menu with photos, and order themselves — no waiting for a waiter, no app to download."

Kitchen screen

"Orders pop up on a screen in your kitchen with a sound. Your team taps through — cooking, ready, served. No shouting, no wrong orders."

Loyalty & rewards

"Every order automatically earns the customer points and stamps. No punch cards. This is what turns a one-time visitor into a regular."

Win-back campaigns

"It spots customers who stopped coming and personally invites them back with an offer — and shows you exactly how much money that brought in."

Weekly growth ideas

"Every Monday, one concrete moneymaking suggestion from your own sales data. You approve with one tap."

Reviews

"Happy customers get nudged to leave a Google review — your rating climbs on its own. Unhappy ones come to you privately first, before it becomes a public complaint."

Full dashboard

"Every order, every rupee, every conversation — live, on your phone, from anywhere. And your data is always yours to export."

4. Handling objections

"I'm doing fine without it."

"Great to hear. One thing though — [repeat their pain, e.g. 'you did say night messages get missed']. If fixing just that was free for 10 days, worth a look?"

"AI will say something wrong."

"Right instinct — anything sensitive it doesn't answer, it checks with you. And you see every conversation live. Nothing is hidden."

"Too costly."

"What's an average table give you — 400, 500? So 3,000 is six tables a month. The win-back messages alone usually beat that. And 10 days are free, no card — zero risk."

"I'm not technical."

"Perfect, it's built for you. If you can use WhatsApp, you can use this. There's a full picture-guide, and I set it up WITH you personally."

"Send me details, I'll see." (the polite no)

"Sending right now. So I send the right thing — what's the one thing you'd want it to prove before you'd trust it?" → that answer is the REAL objection. Handle it, then close again.

"Let me ask my partner."

"Makes sense. What do you think THEY'll ask? Let me give you that answer now so you're ready. Should I call back tomorrow 7 PM after you talk?"

5. Closing & follow-up

Best close — sign up together on the call

"Signup takes 2 minutes, first 10 days free, no card. Open zordic.in/onboard, I'll stay on the line, we'll do it together right now."

Then: name → their name → phone → done → "Screenshot that username and password now." Walking them through live beats 10 follow-up calls.

Second close — book the visit

"Better idea — I'm in your area on [day]. Give me 15 minutes, I'll set up your real menu in front of you. [Day] morning or evening?"

Soft close — locked callback

"Sending you two links — a 2-min demo and the full guide. Have a look tonight, I'll call Thursday at 5. If it's not for you, tell me straight, no hard feelings."

WhatsApp within 5 minutes of hanging up

If signed up:

"Great talking! 🎉 Your café is live. Login: [zordic.in/login/\[cafe-id\]](https://zordic.in/login/[cafe-id]) · Full picture guide: zordic.in/Zordic-Owner-Guide.pdf · I'll call tomorrow to connect your WhatsApp. Welcome aboard! 🍷"

If thinking:

"Good talking! As promised — 2-min demo: zordic.in/pitch · Full guide: zordic.in/Zordic-Owner-Guide.pdf · 10 days free, no card. Calling you [day] at [time]. — Satyam, Zordic"

6. Phone manner & the cheat card

- Slow down. Nervous sounds fast. Trustworthy sounds unhurried.
- Pause after questions. Count 3 in your head. Silence sells.
- Say their name 2–3 times — not more, not zero.
- Never talk over them. The second they speak, you stop.
- One lane per call. Their pain, your fix.
- Log every call — pain, objection, next step, promised date. A callback made on time beats any line in this guide.
- Never invent a feature or a client, never fake urgency, never argue with a hard no.
